
Open House LC Spring 25 Seminar:

Queer Design Thinking

Design thinking strategies are used across disciplines from the sciences to the arts to create human-centered solutions to complex problems. In this class, we will learn about the design thinking process, examine case studies, hear from design thinking experts, and create our own design thinking experiments. As a culminating project, students will collaborate on a self-directed design initiative that will improve the experience of your communal Open House spaces.
